

Connecting with AMC's Graduating Seniors

Liam Magill

Seraphina Thorpe

Janessa Zimmerman

Liam Magill

Liam grew up as a child of AMC and attended church with his parents, Ingrid and Renny Magill, and later his sister Claire. Especially meaningful to Liam have been his connection to MYF, and his baptism on Easter of this year.

His MYF highlights have been many. In 2016, he celebrated his birthday with the MYF in Denver while participating in the DOOR service project. Once, he helped solve a potential "crisis" with another MYFer and Advisor team as one of the MYFers lost their wallet at Convention. Weekends at Kings Cabin were always a favorite.

Liam has enjoyed traveling to National Parks with his family. Together they have visited the Badlands, Yellowstone and Grand Tetons, Zion, Bryce, the Grand Canyon, Arches, Mesa Verde and Acadia. During trips to Maine, he enjoyed learning to kayak.

During his time in the after-school program at Helping Hands in Akron, he learned to know Justin Gehman, who is a member of the Akron Volunteer Fire Company. This friendship had a strong influence on Liam, and before he was able to join the fire company at 14, he spent time helping with fundraisers and attending fire company events. He has remained an active member of the fire company, and this interest led him to study Protective Services his last year in high school at the Lancaster County Career and Technology program.

Liam plans to bring his interest in first response together with his desire to help people to his studies of Disaster Management at Hesston College. He welcomes support from AMC through prayers, communication, and care packages!

Seraphina Thorpe

Seraphina's first connection to AMC was through her grandmother Sandy Thorpe. She quickly connected with the MYF and established friendships. She found the trips to Kings Cabin especially meaningful because that is where she made lasting relationships with both AMC's youth and Plains Mennonite youth. During those three days, she got closer to everyone and grew spiritually alongside her friends.

Seraphina grew up with four older siblings, whom she describes as “harsh”; yet she credits them with helping her become the confident, strong individual that she is. Every year the family vacationed in Stanardsville, VA where they had many “interesting, hilarious, and unforgettable” times.

Until 7th grade, Seraphina was cyber-schooled through the PA Virtual Charter School. In 7th grade, she transferred to Linden Hall in Lititz. While she loved all her classes, especially math classes, her absolute favorite class was AP US History. She was active in orchestra, choir, soccer, basketball, acting, and as class president.

Seraphina plans to study Industrial Engineering at Schreyer Honors College at Penn State main campus. She is considering minors in Spanish and music, as well as many extra-curriculars. She will take with her the friendships, snapchats, and memories from AMC, and she invites the congregation to hold her in prayer as she begins university.

Janessa Zimmerman

For Janessa, life is about relationships – with extended family, AMC, and friends. Growing up as a child of AMC, she attended church with her parents, Phil and Karmen Zimmerman, and sister Makena. She also connected to AMC through her grandparents Kermit and Sharon Yoder. She feels a real sense of community through the relationships she has built with the congregation, and especially with the MYF. Conventions in Kansas City and Orlando, and retreats at Kings Cabin and Paradise Lake are among her MYF highlights.

Janessa has many fond memories of her childhood – pick-up soccer games in her backyard, riding her scooter around the neighborhood with Makena, and trips to West Virginia over the 4th of July. Some vacations still occur to this day – Rehoboth, Delaware and Wrightsville Beach, North Carolina.

Janessa has been actively involved at Warwick High School through field hockey, National Honor Society, Spanish Honor Society, and Aavidum, an organization that empowers youth to break the silence surrounding challenging issues facing teens. She especially enjoyed fine arts classes such as Fine Metalworking and Ceramics.

Janessa plans to attend EMU in the fall, and to major in either Biology or Psychology. She will take with her the many AMC friendships she has made, and her sense of spiritual growth. She would love to stay in touch with AMC, and welcomes messages and emails. She has enjoyed being part of AMC, and would like a community like this one to return to.

Pray For One Another

James 5:16

The purpose of “Pray For One Another” is to help us be aware of and pray for members of AMC who, for whatever reason, are unable to participate in Sunday morning worship services on a regular basis. Scripture admonishes us to pray. It is one of the joys of the Christian life and part of what makes us community. The names of people listed change from time to time. If you know of someone you would like to be included with those named here, please be in touch with the church office.

Pastor's Perspective

Conversations and Connections

I continue to participate in an ongoing conversation with other faith leaders in Lancaster County around the issue of racial discrimination in the allotment of state funding for public schools. I am forming relationship with brothers and sisters from different faiths, denominations, and races. Together we are working to make Lancaster County a place where all our children receive an education that brings shalom to our community. These conversations and connections are at times uncomfortable as we face our differences. I am learning about bias and perception of language...what do people living in Columbia think when they hear "Lancaster," what do people living in Lancaster think when they hear "Columbia," and what do others think when they hear "Lancaster County" or "Lancaster." What do these terms mean? How are they perceived? With what places do we identify? How do we speak in ways that unite rather than divide? It can be an uncomfortable conversation but it is also a challenging, invigorating conversation to be part of something bigger and to work toward the betterment of our community together.

I invite you to join the conversation and connections. Next Sunday, June 3, friends from Zion Lutheran (Akron) congregation will join us during second hour to consider and plan how we might engage more people from our school districts and broader community to join the conversation. This will be a great opportunity to further develop relationship with brothers and sisters in the faith and to share in uncomfortable and challenging conversation.

Pastor Matt Lenahan of Zion Lutheran will also be hosting a workshop on the issue of racial discrimination in state funding on Wednesday, June 6, 7pm at Zion Lutheran Church, Akron. If you were unable to attend the previous workshop that Matt and I did together, this will be a great opportunity to join others in the broader Akron community to learn about the issue.

Then on June 20 you are invited to join people of faith from across our county and the state at the capital in Harrisburg to speak with our elected officials about our desire to see that all children within our state receive the education that they need for the wellbeing of our entire community. Transportation will be provided. Please contact me at rnolt@akronmench.org or call the church office to join the conversation and make connection with people of faith in our area. — Rachel Nolt

The MYF young ladies and Advisor women were treated to an afternoon tea hosted by Karen King and Joyce Longenecker at the home of Karen King. Surrounded by energetic conversation, homemade brunch foods, fresh fruit, decadent chocolates and of course several tea flavors were beautifully served and enjoyed. The girls all wore spring dresses, adding a special tea party flair at the table set with delicate tea cups and fine china. A heartfelt thank you to Jessie and Nick Buckwalter for sharing their winning bid on this festive MYF Auction Item with the youth group.

Forgiving God in the face of an unexpected future

October 12, 1989, marks the day I thought my heart would stop and the world would come to an end.

While my heart didn't actually stop, although it did skip a few beats, my perception of the world and my family's future was changed forever. This was the day that my husband and I learned that our two sons both had Fragile X syndrome, a genetic disorder that causes intellectual disability and symptoms often associated with Autism Spectrum Disorder. I later learned that it was me who is the carrier of the Fragile X gene.

The doctors handed us the diagnosis of this condition without a guidebook or instructions. We had no idea what to do, yet we knew we had to somehow move forward.

All I could think of that day and in the days to come was, "Why, God? Why would you let this happen to me, to us?"

I was angry and resentful towards God. I argued with God, asking,

....."Are my boys' disabilities supposed to help make the world be a better place?

....."Were they created this way to help me be more accepting of others?"

As my sons grew older, they began to understand that they were different from other kids. Sometimes they acted in ways they didn't want to, which was hard on them.

My questions for God continued as they grew up.Why would God allow this?

.....Were they born to be this way?Is this what a loving God intended?

Eventually, I came to understand that the answer is "Yes."

I found answers to my questions in scripture.

In Psalm 139, the psalmist says, "He knit us together in our mother's womb and knows all our days before the world was created." Job also says, "What? Shall we receive good at the hand of God and shall we not receive evil?"

These scriptures remind me that life isn't supposed to be easy. Life is a continued learning experience, and sometimes events occur without explanation as to what the lesson is. God sees the end from the beginning. He surely knew of the hope that would be stolen from us on October 12, 1989. Just as surely, God must grieve this, too.

After we received the news that day in 1989, I was angry, and I blamed God. The notion of my ever "forgiving God" seemed ridiculous, even offensive to me. I couldn't comprehend how a loving God could allow the pain and loss that I was experiencing so intensely. I had a hard time of letting go of the dreams I'd had for raising "typical" children. I struggled to let go of the image of what I thought life ought to give me.

With time, God does heal the hurt. But for this to happen, I needed to reconcile myself to God, which meant becoming friends with Him. You see, I'd always been in awe of God, respected Him, and acknowledged God my spiritual Father. But I'd never considered God as a companion and friend. In my suffering, I came to experience God as a faithful presence and companion through the unknown. I realized that I must expect suffering and loss, accept it, and find God's companionship through it. Faith became an act of letting go of what I expected for myself and my sons.

I pray that I can continue to let go of what isn't, and to hold on to what is. God tells us, “My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, says the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.” (Isaiah 55:8-9)

God promises that even if the world tears us apart, God's ways will triumph. All my troubles are trumped by the power and promise of Christ. I've discovered that God works for good through the tragedies.

I had a choice back in 1989, and I have the same choice to make every day.... choose to be bitter, or to treasure what I have and adjust my perceptions of life. Peace comes to all who live as people of love, who look at what they have as a blessing, and who pass blessings on to the next person.

God is my strength through grief and struggle. Perhaps reaching this point means that I have forgiven God.

Chris Fabry, in his book, Dogwood, said this about life: “Basically life is a dance through a field full of cow manure. Most people won't even go into the field; they go around it and pretend. Or they try to tiptoe here and there and stay close to the fence. They don't see that the fertilizer creates beautiful flowers and some of the greenest grass you'll ever see. Put on your hip boots and waltz through the cow pies.”

With God's help, I pray that I can continue to do this.

Diamond Street Beat

By Kim Bell
June 2018

June - for many schools that means closed classrooms, empty hallways, and quiet buildings. Not for Diamond Street! Did you realize that most of our classes run year-round? The Orioles, Owls and Eagles do follow the Ephrata Area School District's school year calendar, so they end in early June, but we start Summer Camp on June 11th. So really, for us, June is just another month.

However, in June we hold "move ups" where some children move from one classroom to another because they have aged out of their current class. That's an exciting transition for everyone involved - the children get a new teacher, classmates and schedules, the teachers have to get to know the new children in their classrooms, and the office handles all the paperwork involved!

During Summer Camp, up to 24 children ages 5-10 spend 11 weeks with us learning how to care for their community. We have lots of internal and outside service projects planned for our campers, as well as weekly clubs, trips to the Hillcrest pool, and all kinds of exciting field trips. Sounds like fun, right? Almost makes you want to be a kid again, doesn't it?

Diamond Street Staff Bio

Kelly Noll
Lead Teacher - Swans

Kelly Noll is the teacher in our Swans classes – half-day preschool for 3- and 4-year-olds. She also teaches the Doves class which is a full-day class for the same age-group during the summer months. She provides a rich learning environment that includes all areas of development.

Kelly went to RACC and has an Associate's degree in Early Childhood Education. She has worked at Diamond Street since 2004 – first in the Hummingbird room, and the last 3 with the preschoolers. She loves the coworkers and families she has met over the years.

She and her husband of 20 years live in Reamstown with their 16-year-old son, a dog named Rocky and a cat named Holeshoot (which is a motocross term – a favorite hobby of the family).

In her spare time, Kelly enjoys writing, reading, building dollhouses, gardening, traveling, and spending time with her family. She recently wrote a children's book about motocross called "A Day at the Track". Her son races motocross so she calls herself a "motomom"!

Kelly is a special teacher and a wonderful co-worker. We are lucky to have her here, teaching our preschoolers all year long!

An Appeal on Behalf of the Sen Family

by Richard Sarker

Sailen and Shantona Sen lived as an active Christian family in Shambhuganj, Bangladesh, along with their two children, Sreamoni and Wilson. Tragedy struck this family 8 months ago when Sailen died in a bus accident when he was returning home from a nearby town where he had gone to look for work. Shantona became a widow with two children in a village where there are very limited resources to begin with.

I met Shantona a few months after Sailen's death, and we were able to provide her with two goats as part of our organization's support to widows in that area who do not have any other sources of income. Her children also attend our school in Shambhuganj and are provided with lunch five days a week as part of our nutrition program for the children there. Shantona usually was not able to provide three meals a day for her children in the past with her limited income and saw this as a blessing. She was eager to go on with her life with her daughter Sreamoni (age 9) and son Wilson (age 7) and accepted the fact that God has a purpose for everything.

On May 4, 2018, Shantona was killed during a lightning storm while tending to her goats and chickens. As the storm approached, she was trying to usher the animals back to protect them, as many die each year due to lightning strikes in that area. She herself was struck by lightning and killed.

We do not always understand God's plans, or why such tragedies happen. However, we do know that Sailen and Shantona left behind two children who now have very little to live on. The Sens lived in extreme poverty and had nothing to leave behind. The children, who go to our school, are now our responsibility, as their extended family cannot afford to financially support them.

We are exploring ways to send the children to a Christian orphanage. However, the orphanage cannot take them in the middle of a school year (the school year runs January—December in Bangladesh), and the children have to be provided for until 2019.

We have estimated that it will cost approximately $1,200 for food, clothing, and other expenses for the children to get them through 2018. Once they can go to the orphanage, their expenses will be much smaller, and only for travel, food, clothing, and medical care during the times they are visiting their relatives in Shambhuganj.

We appreciate any help you can provide so we can take care of the children of Sailen and Shantona during this painful time in their life. Please contact Richard Sarker (717-271-1585) if you have questions or want to contribute.

Benefit Cabaret Organized by Local Youth and Church Member Anna Clemens

Despite being away at college with a heavy course load and high involvement with my theatre company on campus, I tried my hardest to stay up to date on current events. On February 14th footage of yet another mass shooting came across my Facebook, twitter, and TVs across campus. In my heart, I knew something had to change. The fact that I could name more mass shootings than I had fingers exemplified the very problem at hand. However, something was different about this one. The survivors started speaking and writing. They started talking to politicians and politicizing their experience because they too saw the problem. They created an organization, March For Our Lives, that pulled off a huge event as well as pushes for important legislation.

In some of their interviews, they started using the phrase “mass shooting generation.” The truth of this phrase shocked me. To give you some perspective, Columbine happened about a year after I was born (1999). 7 years later, I was a third grader and a mass shooting occurred miles away from my elementary school at West Nickel Mines elementary (2006). After this point, I could name shooting after shooting. The fact that these events have served as a measurement of my life is a symbol of our broken system.

For the past year and a half, I have been angry and frustrated with the way the world has seemed to be going. However, seeing other young people take action against the system and the people in charge inspired me to do something. I was trying to come up with a way for me to make this change that I wanted to see. I always thought I was too busy or not strong enough to do it. Then, it dawned on me: A benefit cabaret. I knew just who to ask to join me in taking on this project. All through high school my best friends and I would spend our time venting about social inequality and performing onstage. Theatre and activism have become my true passions in life. This event allowed me to combine the two and start a conversation in our area.

Lancaster County is a diverse area of Pennsylvania and this diversity allows for good conversation despite differing views. Music and Theatre allow people to connect in ways that they once thought to be impossible. So this is where you all come in. Please consider coming to this event with an open mind and an open heart. My hope is that this cabaret will not only serve to be a source of financial support for March For Our Lives but also a conversation starter and a unifying space. Our mission is to promote unity among a diverse community through performance arts, advocate for a safer tomorrow for all individuals no matter their identity, and allow the next generation to become involved in activism and nonpartisan politics through creative endeavors.

AMC Vision Statement

Akron Mennonite Church will be fully engaged in God's mission in a broken world as we are called, equipped and sent by the Holy Spirit to follow Christ in life. Shaped by the gifts and vision of our members, we will keep Christ and church at the center of our lives as we reach out to neighbors near and far and witness to the world around us through an Anabaptist-Mennonite expression of faith.

Statement on Human Sexuality

We are a community of believers seeking to respond with God's love to all people. We celebrate the strength of our unity in the midst of our diversity of experiences, perspectives and understanding of Scripture. We seek to be a community of grace and reconciliation and so welcome into membership all who confess faith in Jesus Christ, including those in same-gender covenant relationships. We are committed to engaging in God's mission in a broken world through an Anabaptist-Mennonite faith perspective.
